

SUMMER 2025 OUTCOMES REPORT

HIGHLIGHTS

- Both campers and their parents/caregivers reported that campers enjoyed Camp, felt valued, a sense of belonging, and experienced connections with others.
- Nearly all campers and parents/caregivers reported that campers increased their friendship skills.
- The Net Promoter Score (likelihood to recommend Camp to others) was good for campers and high for parents/caregivers, similar to other Hole in the Wall summer programs.
- Horses, Pool, Boating & Fishing, Stage Night, and Carnivary were favorite activities of campers.
- The people at Camp continue to be one of the very best things about Camp, according to campers.
- Campers discussed their positive qualities, how they interact with one another, and the relationships, connections, and memories they make with them.
- While most campers would change nothing about their Camp experience, several wanted to change the food.

Net Promoter Scores

Camper Outcomes

Campers' self-reported friendship skills increases averaged 3.5 on a scale of 1-5, indicating friendship skills "increased some." Parents/caregivers reported their children's friendship skills increased 3.6. The skills of "making friends" and "helping friends have fun" increased most.

Experience averages (scale of 0-100). First number is camper average, second is parent/caregiver average.

In Their Own Words

The best thing is that you can just be yourself with out hiding who you really are. (camper)

The best thing about camp is that everyone is always super kind and spreads positive energy. (camper)

I love all of it but if I had to choose one thing, I would probably say how adapted it is for everyone. This is because I feel like how ever hard my stuff gets, I will always have a home here. (camper)

Both of my kids had the time of their lives! Loved every minute of it and the camp counselors were amazing. (parent)

My daughter LOVES this camp!! She talks about it all year and made so many new friends. She even commented on how cool it is to spend that time with kids who have been through the same things as her. (parent)
